1. Trait and Skills Theories

These early theories focus on identifying inherent traits or learned skills that distinguish effective leaders. Key insights:

Behavioral models shifted focus from inherent traits to observable actions. Yukl explores:

- Task-oriented behaviors: Emphasizing goal-setting, planning, and organizing.
- People-oriented behaviors: Fostering team cohesion, supporting followers, and demonstrating consideration.

Implication: Leaders need to balance task and relationship behaviors based on context.

Yukl critically examines models like Fiedler's Contingency Model and Hersey-Blanchard's Situational Leadership, emphasizing that effective leadership depends on situational variables, including follower readiness and task structure.

Key points:

- No one-size-fits-all approach.
- Leaders must adapt their style to match specific circumstances.

2. Laissez-Faire

- Characterized by minimal direct involvement; effective only when followers are highly competent and motivated.

3. Transformational vs. Transactional

- Transformational leaders inspire and motivate beyond self-interest.
- Transactional leaders focus on exchanges, rewards, and compliance.

Critical Evaluation: Yukl advocates for flexible leadership, suggesting that effective leaders fluidly shift styles depending on situational variables.
